Nestled in the forested hillside bordering Gros Morne National Park in Western Newfoundland & Labrador, the Gros Morne Inn will debut in spring 2022. Local entrepreneurs Ian Stone and Rebecca Brushett own the inn.

Boasting ocean and mountain views from each of the 15 guestrooms, the boutique inn's interiors are inspired by the clean lines, natural light, and color palette from the surrounding environment, with local wildlife and marine artwork featured throughout. With sustainability at the core of its mission, the eco-friendly boutique inn has repurposed or rehomed as much as possible from the original structure.
